

Q3.1 Independent and Identically Distributed (IID)

This dataset is likely IID. The data for each mammal has been collected from the same study and taken as an average of the population. Visually, they also appear to be mostly identically distributed along our plot without clustering. In addition, the individual data collected from these mammals appear independent of one another without dependencies.

